Ashland Theological Seminary commits to provide a scholarship of half of the church grant (max. $1000) per term. For instance, if the church gives $1000, the seminary will give $500, as funds are available. The grant must come from the budget of the sponsoring church/organization for an eligible master's level student. This award is intended to invite local faith communities to partner with theological students in paying for their education. Churches should not receive a gift from the student or the student's family for the purpose of this funding program. Signing this form affirms that the gift is given from the church/organization and not from the student or family.
