

Graduate Diploma in Youth Ministry – 15 hours

Graduate Diplomas have multiple functions within theological education. They can be used as stepping stones into degree programs. They can function as continuing education for Christian leaders who have already obtained degrees but desire further opportunities for learning and growth. They can provide specialized training in a particular area of theological study and practice. All of Ashland's graduate diplomas fall within the range of 4-10 graduate level courses (12-30 semester hours). Applicants are required to have an earned Bachelor's degree and provide a transcript along with their application.
